Christmas Is for the Archousai

Alpha, Beta Eta and Delta Epsilon Boulés Join for Christmas Bash

Spotlight on our fabulous Archousai

Last year, Alpha, Beta Eta and Delta Epsilon boulés – from Philadelphia, Delaware and Southern New Jersey – enjoyed their joint 2022 Christmas Is for the Archousai celebration so much that, borrowing a line from the singer Cheryl Lynn, they decided it “deserved an encore.” The signature event took place on Saturday, December 16, 2023, at the Vie event venue on Philadelphia’s North Broad Street, where the food, service and artful architecture never get old.

The evening, which was planned by the joint entertainment committee of Alpha Archons Reginald Royster and Malcolm Riley, Beta Eta Archon Joel Coppadge, and Delta Epsilon Archon Lloyd Freeman commenced with more than two hundred fashionably dressed Archons and Archousai immersed in Vie’s signature cocktail space, where they excitedly engaged in conversation over libations and delicacies.

Before dinner in the festively decorated ballroom Alpha Sire Archon Patrick Oates gave the invocation and initial welcome, followed by warm greetings from Delta Epsilon Sire Archon Aaron Davis and Beta Eta Sire Archon Monté Squire. Archon Freeman served as master of ceremonies for the evening.

At an intermission during dinner, Beta Eta Archon James Trotman gave the Tribute to the Archousai, after which his Archousa, Anita, gave the Archousai response. Their rendition, which reflected their joyful years together, was heartfelt and uplifting. This was followed by the Archons standing up, going to pick up the Christmas gifts – wrapped blue Tiffany’s boxes – for their Archousai and presenting them at their respective tables.

The evening transitioned to dancing to the smooth sounds of the Urban Guerilla Orchestra, better known in Philadelphia as UGO. What an encore was this year’s celebration!

Gamma Boulé Archons Offer Tribute to the Archousai

Gamma Boulé, Baltimore, held its annual Christmas Is for the Archousai gala on December 16, 2023. Archons of Zeta Gamma in Annapolis, Maryland, were invited to share in the festivities and extend appreciation to their Archousai as well. Sire Archon Kweisi Mfume presided over the program and presented the following tribute to all Archousai in attendance.

“We, the men of Gamma Boulé, take great joy in saluting and honoring our beloved Archousai at this annual holiday celebration. We celebrate your love, devotion to family and your unique accomplishments in life. Our lives have all been enriched in untold ways because of the holy matrimony that we share together. To the casual onlooker tonight’s gathering may seem ceremonial, but to those of you who know us and love us as your husbands, we seize this occasion to say to you in the sincerest way that we love you and that we are so much better because of you. Christmas is, and will always be, for the Archousai.”

Each Archon presented his Archousa with a beautiful, elegant “Peyton Pearl Poncho” in soft knit with pearl trim. Archousa Tiffany Beth Mfume selected the gift.

Delta Boulé Archons Salute the Archousai With an Evening of “Rizz”

The Archons of Delta Boulé, Memphis, fêted their Archousai on December 3, 2023, with a festive evening at the FedEx Event Center, overlooking the lake on the rolling grounds of Shelby Farms Park, which looked like a fairyland decked out in artistic Christmas motifs, setting the script for a storybook evening.

Chapter one opened with a cocktail hour in a backdrop of live music and flowers, photographers capturing pictures of the glamorously attired Archousai. Festooned arches and other decorations helped create the mood as one Archousa smiled and said, “Oh, what an evening! This even smells like Christmas.”

When the party moved to the dining room, a serious chapter unfolded as the party chair, Archon Neil Beckford, offered moving memorial tributes to Archousai and Archons who died in 2023. The room was silent as each departed member of the Delta family was remembered with pictures and touching narratives.

The next chapter entailed a wine-accented, sumptuous six-course dinner, followed by a second band onstage in the main ballroom, the Bill Hurd orchestra, which played Christmas carols and jazz throughout the evening. Line dancers pranced and danced, putting reindeer to shame, while others watched with enjoyment.

The climax chapter took a surprise turn with the Archons rising quickly from dinner tables in unison and exiting the party room. They returned minutes later in Santa hats, holding sheet music, and wondering minds pondered, what’s next?

When the band ramped up with Donny Hathaway’s “This Christmas,” Archon Beckford moved front and center, baton in hand, directing the fifty-plus choir of Archons in serenading the Archousai. The delighted Archousai jumped to their feet, applauding. There was such a commotion of clicking cell-phones that the song, performed to perfection by the Archons, took on a mesmerizing, melodious new beat.

The singing Santa Archons finished, departing in zagged streams as they presented their Archousai with gold-wrapped copies of the keepsake book Ebony: Covering Black America by Lavaille Lavette, which celebrates the rich history of the magazine.

Everyone was having so much fun that no one seemed to want to come to the final chapter. One thing is for certain, there was an afterglow from the evening that filled everyone with the spirit of Christmas.

People gather to celebrate the season, the grains of sand flowing through the hourglass, their health, the opportunity to smile and be comforted by those they trust. On December 9, 2023, Gamma Alpha Boulé, Tucson, Arizona, celebrated the now. Tucson Country Club was the venue for Gamma Alpha's Christmas Is for the Archousai gala. Zeta Alpha Boulé Holds Yuletide Gala for the Archousai

In the longstanding tradition of enchantment, decadence and allurement associated with masquerade balls, the Archons of Zeta Alpha Boulé, Fort Bend, Texas, swept their Archousai off their feet during the Yuletide Gala for the Archousai on December 17, 2023. Returning to the Ballroom at Bayou Place located Houston for a second year in glamorous style, the Archons and Archousai, adorned with gorgeous masks, enjoyed an evening of splendor and delight. Upon entry into the custom-designed event space, it was immediately obvious that the Archousai were in store for an evening of luxury. Care was taken to organize the schedule to include a fantastic prelude to the main event that provided plenty of time for the enjoyment of fine libations and group photo opportunities to showcase the Archousai and capture the occasion. A saxophonist serenaded the crowd during this time. Following the reception all guests entered the main ballroom, which had been fully transformed into an enchanting setting fit for kings and queens. The refined elegance of the masked Archons and Archousai parading to their tables was complimented perfectly by the marvelous sounds of the live band that began playing when the main ballroom doors opened. Excitement continued to elevate while guests made their way to beautifully decorated tables with gorgeous centerpieces and a full masquerade-ball motif.

Archons and Archousai of the Zeta Alpha Boule' had the pleasure of sharing the evening with a special guest, Grand Grammateus Samuel W. Bacote III of Kappa Boulé and his Archousa, Dorlisa Bacote. As a part of the formal program, Grand Grammateus Bacote brought forth greetings and shared poignant reflections on the historical foundations and significance of the Christmas Is for the Archousai event as a hallmark of the fraternity. Throughout the evening and following the event, Archons remarked on how incredibly thankful they were to have Grand Grammateus Bacote accept the invitation to attend the gala and how timely his remarks were. Archousai also expressed appreciation for the opportunity to hear a uniquely framed retrospective on the historical significance of the event in connection with its current relevance. In addition to sharing a moving and heartfelt elucidation of the importance of Christmas Is for the Archousai, in usual form and fashion Grand Grammateus Bacote also highlighted the importance of Archons to render deference to our Archousai and dutifulness to our protocols.

Archon Charles Mitchell, special events chair, orchestrated and officiated the evening's affairs alongside his brilliant Archousa, Millie Mitchell. Several Zeta Alpha Archons contributed to the success of the Yuletide Gala, including those who facilitated various aspects. Sire Archon—Elect Warren Spann provided the Occasion and introduction of visiting Archons, followed by remarks by Grand Grammateus Bacote, which was complimented by a riveting Invocation led by Archon Derrick Cyprian. Upon conclusion of the prayer, the live band provided entertainment while dinner was served. The menu consisted of a well designed three-course meal, which included a collection of South African wines curated by Archon Wayne Lockett, owner of Branwar Wines.

The pièce de résistance of the evening occurred during the presentation of gifts to the Archousai, in which each Archousa had an opportunity to showcase her beautiful gown as she was escorted to center stage to receive her gift and take a commemorative photo with her Archon. Adding to the spirit of Christmas, several Archons cheerfully assisted with the presentation of the gifts, including Archons Daryl Basham, Ansell Sims, Robert Collier and Richard Mansfield and Grapter Sean Haley. After the gift presentation, Thesauristes Wayne Lockett had the pleasure of presentation the new Archons and Archousai: Daryl and Beryl Basham, Ansell and Pam Sims, and Roderic and Robin Pettigrew.

To draw the program to its end Grammateus James Holmes provided closing remarks. Following these remarks, Archon Charles introduced a much-treasured moment, known as the Archousai serenade. Romance filled the air as Archons and Archousai packed the dance floor, lovingly embraced, and danced to a beautiful ballad. Once the ballad ended, the tempo immediately shifted, and the dance floor erupted. The entertainment for the remainder of the evening included a deejay and “hype-man,” who provided extreme merriment and plenty of opportunities for Archons and Archousai to break out their favorite dance moves, including line dances, soul train lines and occasional special dance moves reminiscent of the 70's, 80's and 90's. The Yuletide Gala for the Archousai proved to be a tremendous success with the celebration continuing well into the late-night hours.
